Also Helps the U.S. Embassy contact you in an emergency, whether natural disaster, civil unrest, or family emergency (think earthquake, terrorist bombing or train derailment type thing). Check each country for updated embassy alerts and warnings.

PASSPORT:

Number and Expiration Date: Jot down the number to use for transportation reservations. Some site tickets and some lodging reservations require your number depending on the country. The expiration date of your passport is very important. Passports should have at least six months of validity when traveling internationally from the final day of travel. Most countries will not permit a traveler to enter their country if their passport is set to expire within this time frame, they may deny you entry! Certain countries also require proof of departure such as an airline reservation. Additionally, many countries require an empty page or two for your stamp. Check each country you visit on the International Travel Page at www.travel.state.gov.

TRAVEL INSURANCE:

Although not required, travel insurance is an inexpensive peace of mind when traveling outside your country of origin. Many countries will not treat you without some sort of insurance or CASH. In addition, depending on the policy, travel insurance covers many other kinds of events

MEDS:

Document what medications you need and check to see if they are allowed in the countries you visit (some are not). Make sure you have prescriptions with you if needed and phone numbers related.
